And tourists flock here for diving, to see this incredibly beautiful city that rests at the bottom of a lake. This is one of those rare cases where a city was actually intentionally flooded when Quiandao Lake was created as part of a hydro-electric project. Now, Lion City sits under around 80-100 feet of water and is still wonderfully well

Geography. City:

Looking at modern day cities, a pattern emerges of a high population density with residents from various ethnicities over a larger geographical location. Cities possess a diverse population of different religions, races, and languages among others. With a bigger population, cities often occupy a larger geographical location and have
