Racecraft The Soul Of Inequality

So pervasive are the devices of racecraft in American history, economic doctrine, politics, and everyday thinking that the presence of racecraft itself goes unnoticed. That the promised post-racial age has not dawned, the authors argue, reflects the failure of Americans to develop a legitimate language for thinking about and discussing inequality.

Most people assume that racism grows from a perception of human difference: the fact of race gives rise to the practice of racism. Sociologist Karen E. Fields and historian Barbara J. Fields argue otherwise: the practice of racism produces the illusion of race, through what they call "racecraft.". And this phenomenon is intimately entwined with other forms of inequality in American life.

Humanities: Racecraft: The Soul of Inequality in American Life Due Date: 03-09-2020. In Racecraft: The Soul of Inequality in American Life, Karen and Barbara Fields argue that "race" is a pseudoscientific system for explaining invisible forces. For the authors, race is inexorably speculative; it is a way of using imaginary science to construct or craft the extra-empirical reality of racial difference.
